Shigeru Miyamoto has passed away

Now that I have your attention, how about we start with EviLore himself? From sexually assaulting a women, completely dismissing someone's opinion, banning them, and telling them to fuck off solely for being a brony, selling a user's content without permission and then changing the ToS directly afterwards, permabanning a woman who criticized him, ignored him, and turned down his advances, and just being an all around sexist pig, we're surely dealing with a perfectly fine upstanding individual here and NOT an absolute piece of shit. And that's not even getting into the multitudes of his posts that consist solely of sick burns and snark. No doubt these type of posts are great contributions to the community of course, gotta keep NoeGAF's "flavor" intact.

Moving onto the traditional mod team, where shall we start?

Depressingly Realistic

A small icon of a chess piece, specifically a king or queen.

So, almost al of us seem to be agreeing that pedophiles who do not act on their urges deserve sympathy. However, we seem to disagree on whether those who act on their urges deserve sympathy.

To use outside examples to explain my point of view here: do you ever feel sympathy for people who commit crimes? Poor people, for instance, are much more likely to commit a wide host of crimes, from robbery to murder. Do you feel no sympathy for them?

I do. I think their crimes are still bad things that people shouldn't do, but I have sympathy for desperate people in situations I can't fully appreciate. It's possible that if I were put in desperate circumstances, I might do something truly awful, too, and I think of myself as a good person, generally.

When I imagine myself having to repress my sexual desires my entire life and never let them slip once, I'd like to think I could do that, but I'm not entirely sure I could. It doesn't make it okay, but it does mean I have at least some sympathy for their plight, even if they slip up.

Well how about with Opiate, who thinks child molesters deserve sympathy. Also, now's a good time to remind everyone that NeoGAF allows anyone 13 and above to have an account, and there's plenty of minors who actively post here I'm sure.

Besada sympathizes with pedos as well. He also thinks calling someone a "jerk" is a volition of the NeoGAF ToS and frequently bans people for doing so Y'know, god forbid any of the special snowflakes on GAF get their feelings hurt. Besada is also a self-proclaimed feminist who thinks parents forcing their ideology onto their children for viral videos is perfectly acceptable and that anyone who disagrees is concern trolling anti-feminist. He also actively posts in the black community thread for some reason.

This isn't even getting into how often threads are locked because the mods didn't like the way discussions were leaning. Most of these types of locks fall under the excuse of "the discussion has run it's course," which is absolute bullshit because if that were the case nobody would still be actively posting. It's outright censorship. Also, the fact that an anonymous account was created solely for the mods to close threads with zero accountability should be an automatic red flag to anyone.

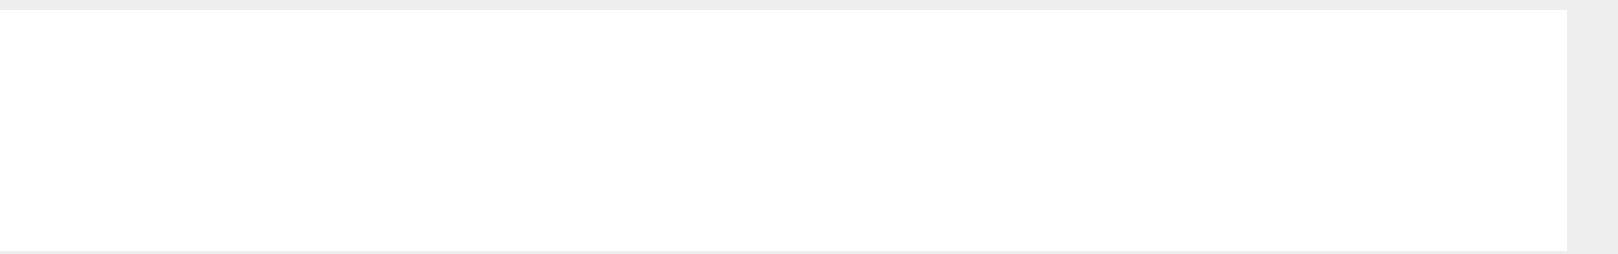

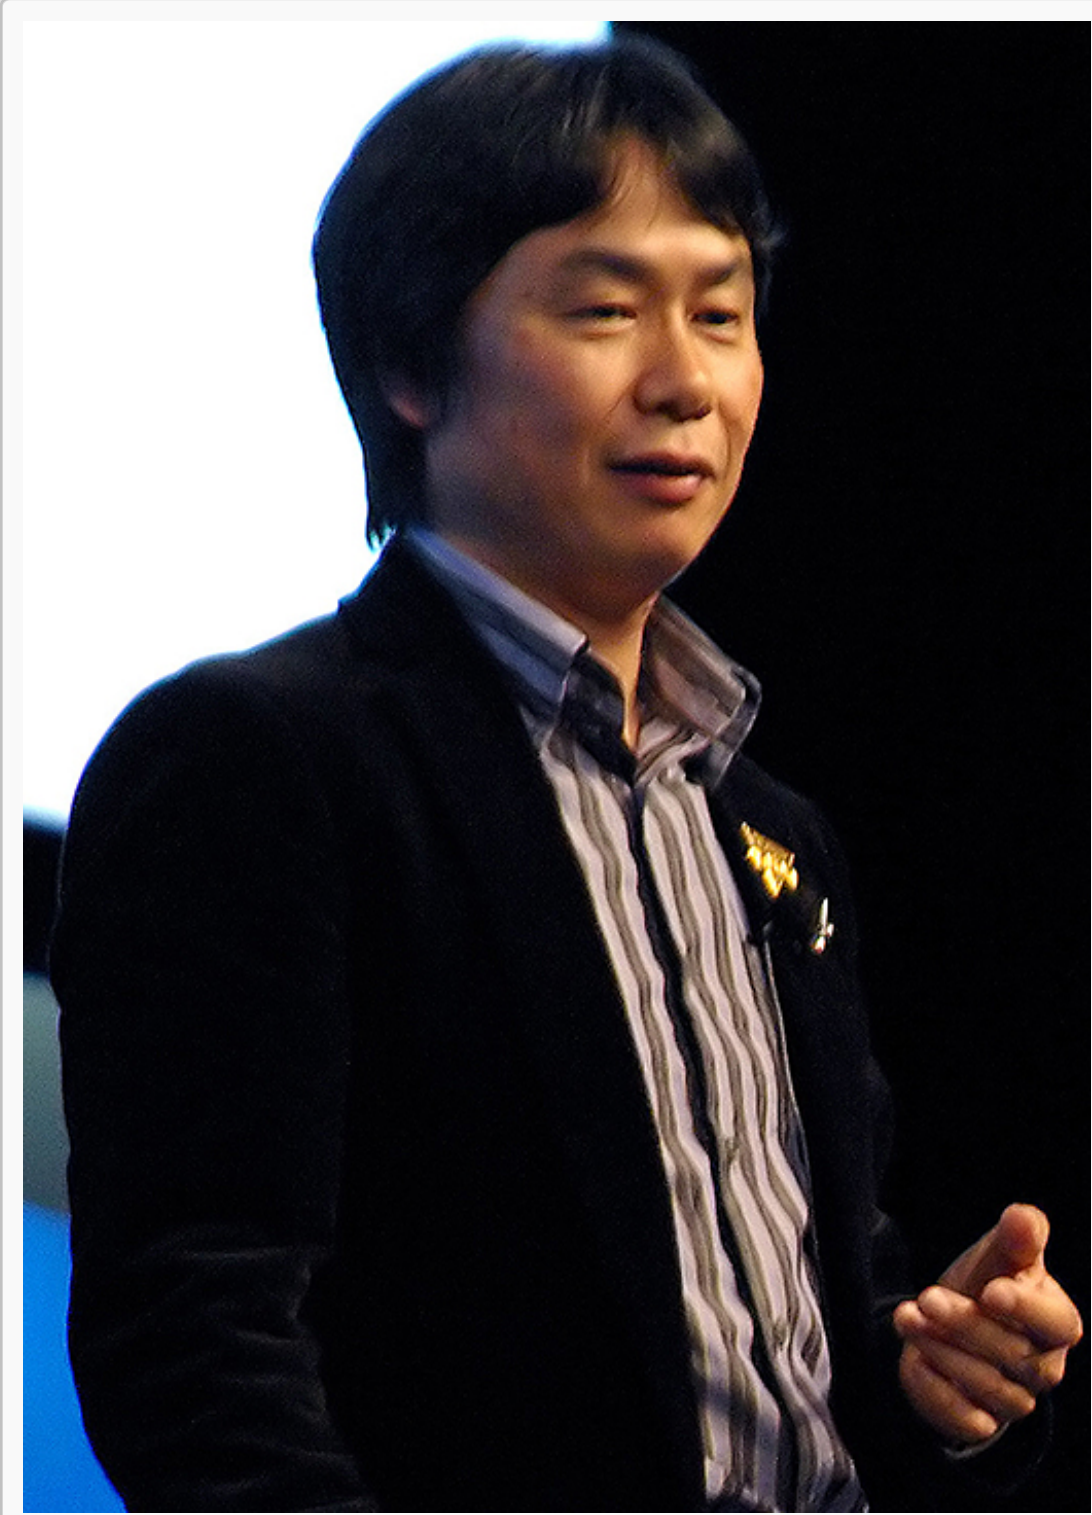

Oh and let's not forget how Lime only got a 2 week ban for calling someone she disagreed with a housenigger. But according to the mods, racism totally isn't tolerated on GAF. Absolutely no bias or double standards at play here as you clearly see. Also, anyone who brings up this hypocrisy is banned of course, criticism of any kind isn't allowed on GAF you know.

So we got a mod team that sympathizes with child molesters and has no qualms with pushing their agendas through their moderation. At least the community here is decent, right? Well when snarky drive-bys and overly passive-aggressive posts infest the forum, that's a great sign. People care more about getting a good "zinger" in instead of actually discussing stuff. And sorry guys, posting a condescending gif instead of actually rebutting to someone's argument is not a valid response. On the same note, saying something is outrageous or heinous without ever actually refuting the argument does not give you credence either. And last but not least, the fanboyism here is absolutely hilarious. Just look at any sales or resolution if you want some prime examples. Here's a thought: Why not build a fucking gaming PC if you idiots care so much about performance and graphics?

It's sad that current and former members of this community have to go to off-site places like /r/neofag to vent their frustration. A womanizing piece of shit like Tyler Malka (EviLore) can't fathom people having meta-discussion on his own site, least he and his clique of mods be wrong about something!

And no, Shiggy isn't dead.
